

some problems, but he got used to me in the end. At night we went to the main square of the city for a walk. The first day in Andria we had a school tour. After that we visited the city. In the evening my host took me to the music school where he was studying, I saw the proluision of an opera he was in. I tried out seafood too. On the last day of the week we went to Trani where we could swim in the ocean. It was so beautiful but we were a bit sad because we felt that the end was coming.

On Saturday morning we said goodbye to everyone. We left Andria and we went to the Naples Airport. When we left for the airport everyone was sad, and some were crying too, but we made new friends and thanks to the Internet we can keep in touch. That was the best week of our life. We got amazing memories and friends; I'm sure I will remember this trip until the end of my life.
